NOON REPORTS.

Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, August 9.-A Bombay dis patch says: "The generally accepted rumor current here is that the Afghans have taken Chammon Choke. It is reported that four thousand Afghans have gathered in the vicinity of Quettah." A Berlin dispatch says: "Count De St. Vallier, the French Ambassador to Germany, has definitively tendered his resignation on account of his health." A Cabul dispatch says: "General Roberts's force, numbering eight thousand, made its first march to Benishbahar yesterday. He hopes to reach Candahar in twenty-five days."

Dr. Tanner.

NEW YORK, August 9.-Dr. Tanner continues in good condition. He passed a quiet night, sleeping most of the time. At 7 o'clock this morning he ate heartily of beef steak and bread. At 9 o'clock he took two boiled eggs and stewed potatoes. drinking two ounces of light wine. At 11 o'clock he swallowed a dozen raw oysters with crackers, washed down with four ounces of milk. He was weighed at noon, the scale indicating 1324 pounds. His pulse at that hour was 95, and temperature 100.

Coal Mine on Fire.

POTTSVILLE, PA., August 9.—The inide workings of the Keely Run Colliery Shenandoah were discovered on fire in no of the breasts this morning. All the wakings were filled with smoke but mules and all loose property were res-

SARATOGA. August 9.—The weather is warm and the track is in good condition and the attendance fair. First race, mile and furlong, Elias Lawrence won: Turfman second; Clarendon third. Time 2:01 1. Second race, Gabriel won; St. Martin second: Jim Beck third. Time 2:54. Third race, amateur riders, mile and 60 vards Kingeraft won; The Stranger sec-

Frank Short third. Time 1:52. In the second race Belle's leg was broken, and Danicheff was also injured. Fourth race, three-quarter mile, Spring field won; Mabel second; Catelpa third Zugara fourth. Time 1:19.

Exeursion Boat Sunk.

New York, August 9.-Yesterday afmoon the excursion propeller E. Corng, on leaving Glen Island with 700 or passengers, ran on a rock, staving a hole in her stern and sunk to her guards. The passengers were all saved.

Died.

CLEARFIELD, PA., August 9.-Ex-Governor Bigelow died this morning.

MIDNIGHT REPORTS.

Southern Crop Reports. GALVESTON, TEX., August 9.—The tton Exchange Crop Report has the wing, compiled from 146 replies from counties, of an average date of July 51 report the weather since July 1st unfavorable, there having been too anch rain. 95 are as favorable and 31 less favorable than for the same time last ear; 1 the same and 114 more favorable: eport 71 per cent. of land as abandonbecause of the excessive rains, and 138 is none abandoned: 31 report the plant as not forming or blooming well, owing to 00 much rain; 115 forming and blooming well, and some unusually well. As compared with last year, 20 report the crop not as good, 11 the same, and 115 better, of which 23 report an average of 40 per cent. better; 10 report some worms, but no serious damage; 1 county reports serious damage; 5 counties report ome boll worms. There is complaint from a number of counties of too much rain, in a few of which the damage s considerable, by reason of the excessive rowth and shedding of fruit. A number counties report picking as going on. SAVANNAH, August 9.—The Savannah ton Exchange gives the following reon crops: "Georgia reports for July licate that with few exceptions the ather has been exceedingly favorable ach more so than for the same period season. No lands are reported abandonand the plant is forming and blooming lendidly. The condition as compared th last season is universally conceded to and ten not so good. The general tenor of the replies shows that since the 20th of July there have been frequent and heavy rains, warm days and cool nights, causing more or less shedding, rust, and too great a growth of the plant. Four counties report lice, and two counties the army worm, but as yet comparatively little damage

Georgia's Deadlock.

ATLANTA, August 9.—The Democratic Convention has been in session five days, without much hope of making nominations under the two-thirds rule. The twenty-ninth ballot was unchanged and the Convention adjourned until to-morrow. The majority will not leave Governor Colquitt for any other man that can be named. as he is within twenty of the two-thirds vote of the Convention. The matter will be referred to the people with a recom-mendation from the majority to elect Governor Colquitt in October. All parties will unite upon the Electoral ticket and the platform, and the candidates of the Cincinnati Convention will be endorsed. The party will act in harmony with the National Democracy.

Accidental Death.

Petersburg, Va., August 9.-A private letter received here to-day gives the particulars of a fatal accident which befel William Jones, a prominent farmer of Campbell county, a few days since. Mr. Jones had quite completed threshing his wheat crop, and at the time of the accident was attempting to jump on the thresher box while it was in motion, when he slipped and fell upon the cylinder. One foot was ground entirely off, and amputation was rendered necessary, from the effects of which Mr. Jones died in a few minutes.

Trotting Match.

ROCHESTER, August 9.—Doubts having been expressed, it is now ascertained to be a certainty that Maud S. and St. Julian will trot here next Thursday for a special purse of $2,000 each, to beat the best me of any trotter or pacer on record.

Virginia Military Institute, LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Session Opens 1st September.

The Report of the Special Board of Examiners for 1875 closes thus:-

In conclusion, your Committee cannot too highly commend what has seemed to them the marked and distinguishing features of this Institution, the happy combi-nation of the military system of instruction with the departments of science and of literary culture, and the more ennobling culture of the heart and soul. Nowhere else have we seen this combination so complete and perfect. We cannot speak of it too highly. It is such a system as fits a pupil for life and for death. Under its guidance he is sure to tread always the path of duty, virtue and honor. (Signed)

THE SOUTH'S PROGRESS.

The Radical Sacramento Record, repeating the untruthful statement that has been so persistently made that even Southern folk have come to believe it, says :-

"The population of the South has failed to keep pace with that of the rest of the country during the past ten years. During that period bulldozing has done its legitimate work. It has driven out the more enterprising and industrious elements. It has prevented immigration and investment. It has hung as a curse over the whole South, and has retarded its growth."

The census returns, printed in full in this morning's NEWS, very emphatically disprove the Record's statement, so far as North Carolina's growth in population is concerned. The reports received from Washington, and printed in THE NEWS a few days ago, as emphatically disprove it as to the other States of the South. We have not only held our own in population, as compared with the North, but it is absolutely certain that we have surpassed it and will gain in Congressional representation. Many another Yankee illusion will be dispelled when the census returns are printed, showing that the South's progress has been even greater in all other respects than in population, gratifying as is the increase in that particular. The masses of the people of the South are better off today than ever before, and the South today is the most prosperous section of the

The Record's remark would have been ducement for immigration or investment while the negro and the carpet-bagger had control of the South, and robbery and "bull-dozing" and worse did their "legitimate work," and did it effectually. There was nothing left to steal when the downfallen carpet-bagger deserted the South. The real growth of the South dates from that desertion, and the marvelous change in the condition of this section, the results of four years of Democratic rule, are felt to-day in every section. As the Louisville Courier-Journal, replying to Radical boasting, says: "Much has been claimed for the resumption of specie payments, but a return to a better monetary system was not possible when a third of the productive power of the nation was paralyzed by misgovernment. Specie payments are not the cause but the consequence of better times. The United States Government and all the banks-of-issue are able to redeem in specie all notes on demand, for their vaults are filled with gold and silver. But this gold and silver was not the result of party management, nor was it created by any party fiat. It comes from the soil, from the golden grain fields of the West and from the cotton and sugar plantations of the South."

The South has crossed the threshold of a new era. Her population is increasing, her products are more and more diversified, mills, factories and foundries are increasing in every State, and her agriculture, the basis of all her prosperity, is more and more intelligent and productive year by year. Her railroads are improving and extending, and labor and capital are coming in to aid, because now good, honest, Democratic government is assured and every man's life and property are safe. The right of local self-government is restored. The men who, in the name of the Republican party and under cover of the old flag, had stirred up strife, had robbed the school fund, had emptied the State treasuries, had opened the doors of the prisons, had conceived and executed the wholesale plunder of the negro laborers under the guise of a savings bank-these men have been driven out of the South, and the negro is now generally industrious, saving and satisfied. This is due to the adoption of the traditional principles of the Democratic party. Public sentiment was aroused and a majority of the people was found to be with the Democratic party. Under President HAYES the policy of the Republicans was abandoned, not from choice, but from necessity, and the good results which have followed are the work of the Democratic party.

THE Tribune has a column of lamentation over the decrease of population in New England. And the New England States are all Radical States, and the New England people have been turning up their noses at the Democratic States of the BUNCOMBE'S NOMINEES.

The county of Buncombe will be ably represented in the next General Assembly It was well represented in the last, and it has improved on doing well by doing better. THEODORE F. DAVIDSON comes back to the Senate to look after the interests not only of the fortieth district, but of the whole half hundred districts that make up the State. Senator DAVIDSON is in the midst of the third decade of life that, should it end now, has been useful to his fellows and an honor to his name. But the people of North Carolina have a good deal of work for him to do-They have learned his worth, they like him, and they are going to trust him Whether as a volunteer soldier in the first company organized west of the Blue Ridge. as the efficient and gallant aide-de-camp of General R. B. VANCE, the soldier turned student when war ceased to be flagrant, the prosecuting officer of the State, the director of his party's politics as the leader of his county and Congressional District, or the painstaking, efficient clear-headed Senator from his Senatorial District, he has held the confidence of his people and has shown that they trusted him with cause. He is popular here at the Capital and his nomination is gratifying to the people from all the great sections of the State.

MELVIN E. CARTER will begin his third term of official public life when he enters the halls of the House of Representatives in January next. Few men have had more to do in shaping the legislation of the last four years than Capt. CARTER. He came to the General Assembly with a ripo knowledge of public affairs, when the Democratic party entered into full posses sion of the State government. He at once turned his attention to the highest plane of legislation, and his big brain and obstinate self-poise soon made him a leader amongst the leaders. He was a staunch friend of the settlement of the State debt on its present basis, the wisdom of which he can appreciate who looks across the line at our brethren in Virginia. He was the earnest advocate of all statutes that promised real internal improvement, and the staunch friend of the Western Road, which he felt was to unite his people to the great business tide that he saw was coming to sweep over the plains of the East and the West. The next House of Representatives promises to be able, even brilliant, if the names we have heard probut be it ever so strong, MELVIN CARTER will not only hold his honors, but will

W. ELBERT WEAVER comes to occupy the seat of that iron-clad reformer, Captain NATT. ATKINSON. The fact that he served with distinction in the war, is a lawyer and a farmer, leads the quiet life of a country gentleman in the small town that bears his name, and is loved by his neighbors and has "bought golden opinions' from all sorts of people by his amiable life, point him out as just the man the people of Buncombe need and will send to the State Capital to represent them. What reforms he promises will be needed and will be made so manifest that they will be effected. If he gains the name of reformer it will be given him by his grateful constituents and not be a self-imposed

FRANKLIN'S REPRESENTATIVE.

We are glad that the Franklin democrats have re-nominated Capt. C. M COOKE for the House of Representatives, because it is a graceful recognition of the valuable service he has already rendered in that capacity, because his experience enables him to render yet more valuable service in the future, and because his nomination makes a very close county certain to send a democratic representa-

'Captain COOKE, although quite a young man, was one of the first among the leaders of the last House. At its regular session he was an earnest advocate of the bill for settling the debt of the State, and at the called session of last Spring he won high praise by his arguments in favor of the sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad both before the Committee and in the House. His other public service has been as a member of the Senate of 1874, and as Solicitor of the 6th Circuit from February, 1877, to August, 1878. He was in the army during the whole war, and at its close was acting as Adjutant of the 55th Regiment. He was severely wounded in one of the last battles of the war, and was captured when

Capt. Cooke is an able lawyer, a clear. logical and forcible speaker, and is and deserves to be one of the most popular men in the State.

WE HAVE no idea of discussing the "balance of trade" theory, but one cannot help laughing at the absurdities in which it involves those who accept it as an unfailing sign of increasing national prosperity. Here, now, is the New York Tribune, telling its people how rich Radicalism has made the country, and citing as evidence the big "balance of trade" in our favor. We have no doubt that Radicalism is entitled to much of the credit for the big balance, for when its rascalities South as going to the dogs because of their | culminated in the great break-down of

But if making a balance in our favor made us rich and Radicalism made the balance it seems to us that a speedy end must be put to Radicalism or we will be broke once more, for the balance is rapidly disappearing. The "balance of trade" in our favor. June 30, 1879, was $264,662,000; June 30, 1880, it was but $167,909,000; nearly one hundred millions gone in a single year. If the Tribune's theories are correct, two more years of Radical rule will once more ruin the country.

WE VERY MUCH FEAR that they wasted their time in looking after money; the twelve or fourteen executive committeemen who have editorial charge of the Signal, we mean. They have been to New York and chatted it all over with Mr. GARFIELD and the men who tote the bag, and the outcome does not promise much income. The Tribune's notice of them is as mean as garbroth, or GAR-FIELD either for that matter. "The North Carolina Republicans," it says, who appeared before the National Exec utive Committee yesterday are probably right in saying that with proper effort the State can be carried for GARFIELD; but can it be counted for him? That is the important question. The election machinery in all the Southern States is in the hands of the Democrats, who will stick at nothing to carry out their share of the bargain with the Northern wing of their party and return the electoral vote of the South solid for HANCOCK."

THE JUSTICES of the Supreme Court filed opinions in thirteen cases yesterday and digests of them will be found on the fourth page of THE NEWS this morning. The case of State vs. HAM is specially worthy of attention as it decides a question of appeals from Inferior Courts of very considerable importance, but a question be it said on which we could never see any room for doubt.

THE FULL RETURNS of the North Carolina census of 1880 are printed in THE NEWS this morning. The increase is very gratifying-339,177, or 331 per Rotation in Public Office.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

EDITOR NEWS :- I rejoice to learn that he Hon. Robert F. Armfield has again been ominated in the Statesville District as the Democratic candidate for Congress in that District. Prior to 1835, when our State Constitution was first amended, and the election of Governor was taken from the Legislature and given to the people, Lewis Williams, Augustine Shepperd, McKay and others were elected continuously for twenty years, and the first named for a still longer period, if my memory serves me aright. In our Legislature, in many of the counties, the respective counties were represented for ten, fifteen, twenty, and more years, by the same persons in one or the other branches of the Legislature. None of these men grew rich, or left Congress or the Legislature with smirched characters. Then, too, we had prudent, economical and stable legislation Both the journals and statute books will show that there was a law repealed or amended, and when the laws were codified, this code lasted from twenty to twenty-five years. But since suffrage to all, and that without limit or qualifications, and every elector has been made eligible to any and all offices and positions in the country, the heresy of demanding continual rotation in office has become so rampant that scarcely is any one allowed to remain in public service long enough to familiarize himself with the simple duties fact, scarcely a Legislature convenes of late years that six tenths of the members are not comparatively new members, and many of them quite young men at that. Not only so, but let what may be done or proposed in the Legislature, long before that body adjourns the legion of hungry spirants for legislative honors simultane ously commence raising a howl against the gnorant, imbecile field hands in the Legslature, at public places, and not unfrequently in the columns of the newspapers, and some of them, I am sorry to say, are not patent outsiders. I have been a close observer of the course of legislation of the State for the last thirty years and nore, and I have often seen the great vils resulting from the continual rotation and change in the members sent to Congress and our Legislature. But I see no way while party spirit is tolerated to over-ride everything like common sense and prudence, to bring about a reform in this direction, unless it is to have primary elections to nominate candidates by ballot. It is an old saw that the "hair of the hound is a cure for his bite." PILOT. WAKE POLITICS:-

Swift Creek, August 7, 1880 .- Your correspondent's communication of the 6th in naming the commissioners who were discharged by a complex board of magistrates, made a mistake in mentioning the name of W. R. Pool, as one of the discharged; he has the pleasure now of correcting that mistake and telling the public through the columns of THE DAILY NEWS, who was given his leave of absence by that great magisterial board (to whom hould have been entrusted the financial difficulties of the county of Wake) I mean Jones, of Cary, a man's record which l think, at least, will never sink into insignificance. It seems to a Swift Creel observer that Raleigh wants to make all the laws by having aspiring lawyers to be beaten all hollow in the coming campaign. We country people want at least one good mechanic from your city, and it is entirely useless for seedy headed old lawyers to

We are having too much rain to benefit our cotton crop, but vegetation of all kinds shows an extraordinary strength. Those grass seed that Mr. Buck Boylan brought from Arkansas and made me a present of have just taken possession of where all my small vegetables should have been found;

NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.] NEW YORK, Aug. 7, 1880.

I am delighted with the discussion beween the candidates at Kenansville, as reported so fully by your associate, Col. Polk, and hope they will canvass the State thoroughly, for nothing could be better calculated to increase the Democratic maority. I had been heretofore struck with he clearness and straight-forwardness of the Governor's written documents, but he shows that he is as powerful a speaker as he is a writer; it is, as you say, "the highest order of eloquence." Instead, however, of saying that he had "set a trap" for his opponent, he might have called it a "dead fall," a bird-catching instrument that I emember in my boyish days, under which the unwary bird never fluttered, and that seems to have been the case with the Judge. It was managed by the Governor with a coolness and skill that would have done no discredit to Gov. Morehead, who was one of the most accomplished stumppeakers that I ever heard. You doubt less remember, boy as you were, the scene at the Town Hall in Fayetteville, where he allowed his opponent to rant for his nour about the banks, and his (Morehead's) assumed indebtedness to those manufactories of rogues and swindlers," as he called them, that "the debtor was slave to the creditor," &c., &c.; and how at the conclusion of this tirade he wanted to retire, as "he was not well and had to ride five miles to his country residence; how the Governor by a few skilful questions induced him to take his seat and bear with what fortitude he could the dreadful avalanche poured upon his devoted head. We friends of the Governor were as much surprised as his opponent could have been when he declared that he did not owe a dollar to any bank, for we knew that he was engaged in all sorts of enterprises, and had no idea that he could have managed them all, and successfully too, without the aid of banks. He owned a cotton factory, a gold mine, a blacksmith shop, a tin shop, a farm, a general store, and I don't know how many other mechanical and industrial establishments, all helping to develop and improve his country, and besides these he had an extensive legal practice; but nobody ever heard of one of these multiplied occupations proving a failure, for he gave his personal attention to all of them, and was never mistaken, so I heard, in the capacity and integrity of any one whom he put at the head, under himself, of one of his many enterprises. And when he entered upon a political life, who ever excelled him And who but he could have built the North Carolina Railroad at that time? Truly he was a great man-a practically great man, and, without at all knowing Gov. Jarvis, for I never have seen him, think he has leading characteristics of his great predecessor. Long may the State retain in its service one so capable and so devoted to its interests!

It is said that the Radicals in North Carolina applied to the gathering of leaders in this city on Thursday for fifty thousand dollars towards carrying on their campaign. I hope they may get it, for it will help some of them and won't hurt the Democrats. It reminds me of the story told of a burly old sailor who allowed his little wife to beat him with the broom-stick, for, said he, "it amuses her and don't hurt me." But won't there be some pickings if the money goes there!

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. McLoud, of Ashe ville, were in the city on Thursday, on their way home. Mr. J. T. Everett, of Laurinburg, arrived yesterday, and is the guest of his brother on Staten Island.

The fuss made in this city over any criminal sentenced to be hanged is disgusting. The young Italian Balbo, who brutally murdered his young wife, for which he underwent merited punishment yesterday, was visited whilst in prison by all sorts of people, men and women, and reporters for the papers printed particular accounts of his sayings and doings, what he ate and drank and wore; and yesterday 20,000 people went to look at his dead body Fortunately executions here are in a measure private, or it can harlly be imagined to what lengths sympathisers in crime might be tempted to go. His execution, and that of Cox, two within a month ought to have some effect in staying the hands of murderers, if anything can. One of the "Statutes of the Streets in this city in 1598, nearly three centuries ago, would have done no discredit to the "Blue Law Code" of Connecticut. It was as follows: "No man shall whistle after the hour of nyne of the clock in the night," or "keep any rule whereby any such suddaine outcry be made in the still of the night, as making an affray or beating his wife or servant." As Gen. Grant remarked about the inscriptions on the old tomb-stones in Westminster Abbey: "People didn't seem to know how to spell in those days.'

General Fremont is a shrewd politician. He spoke to a meeting of a Republican Club in this city on Wednesday night, advising that the Presidential canvass should be conducted upon principles only and without reference to the personal characters of the candidates, declaring that "they are both good men." Not agreed. General; your admission as to General Hancock is only just, and would not have been made if you could have avoided it with decency; but it will not do to claim that Garfield is a "good man," or a fit man to hold office, and especially the highest office in the country, whilst smirched with the Credit Mobilier and De Golyer frauds.

The ingenuity of rogues in this city is without limit. Exhausting one species of swindle they readily find another to serve their purpose. The following is the latest, and about the smallest: "A large man calling himself "Mr. Jacox" cheated a small boy named Abraham Stohr out of 20 cents and a coat yesterday by exacting that sum and the coat as security for the return of the boy from an errand after non-existent valuables to a wrong address in Chatham street."

"John Doe," who has so often figured in suits in this country, "John Doe versus Richard Roe," has turned up bodily near Yonkers in this State, this time as defendant. He has been committed to jail on a charge of running an illicit distillery It is a sensible man who keeps the Stockton Hotel at Cape May. A lady send to room No. 800 for my dear little

On Staten Island the women vote along with the men at school district meetings On a late occasion a lady's "no" just after her husband's "yes" caused some amuse ment, which was increased by the husband publicly complimenting his wife on her

The Nation, that literary weekly of this city which is decidedly Republican in politics, pays a high compliment to Gen. Hancock's letter of acceptance. After stating its points, it thus closes :-

"The best summing up of the letter we can make lies in saying that no one but a scoundrel or a person of defective understanding would dispute a single proposition contained in it."

The Davidson Tragedy.

[From the Lexington Exchange.]

On last Sunday night, about ten or eleven o'clock, Uriah Phelps met his death at the hands of O. W. Click, one of his neighbors, under the following circumstances, which we summarize from the testimony of the witnesses examined before F. M. Thompson and H. H. Hartley, the justices before whom a preliminary trial

Uriah Phelps owned a store in which ne had his brother, Alfred Phelps, employed as a clerk. On Saturday last, two negroes behaved so badly in the store that it became necessary for them to be ejected, which was done summarily. They were ordered to leave the premises. They re-fused to go, but remained dealing out threats of vengeance against Mr. Phelps threatening to kill him on first sight. They finally left declaring that no more goods should be sold there. These negroes were proven to be of a clan noted for bad character and desperation. Sunday night was the night the attack was expected to be made. Mr. Phelps sought the aid of O. W. Click, Esq., who agreed to stay with and help defend Mr. Phelps. Accordingly Mr. Click went to the store with his pis tol, which he carried with him at the request of Mr. P. Mr. Phelps had two pistols. The two men put the pistols in order and loaded them. They were placed on a box near the head of the bed, the handles towards the bed, and within reach. An axe was also on the box, with the handle towards the stairway. The pillows were in position, everything seemed to be in order, with no signs of a disturbance. Mr. Phelps was found lying nearly across the foot of the bed on his right side, with his head on his right arm with three cuts with an axe, two of which, if not the third were sufficient to cause instant death—one high enough on the head to reach the brain. The men fell asleep. Mr. Click in his dream supposed they were attacked by the negroes. He arose, took the axe and inflicted the wounds above described. When he awoke he was down stairs. From his dream he was satisfied he had had a combat of some kind. He went back and found Mr. Phelps as above describe as the Coroner's jury found him. Mr. Click at once started to Alf. Grubb's. about one hundred yards off, crying and screaming so loud that Grubb heard him before he left the store 25 yards. He went to Mr. Grubb and said to him for God's sake to come out there—that he had killed Mr. Phelps with an axe in his sleep, that he was a ruined man, he had killed the best friend he had on earth. Mr. Grubb told him to go down to David Barnes', 400 yards off, which he did crying frantically. He called Mr. Barnes up and told him the same he had told Grubb,

Mr. Barnes offered him a horse to ride home, but he declined, saving he could not ride. While Mr. Barnes was giving the alarm to his neighbors, Mr. Click was lying on the ground rolling in great mental agony. He was finally quieted and taken home. Early Monday morning the officer went to arrest him. He declared that he was perfectly willing to go-that he intended to go to the sheriff after breakfast and give himself up. Mr. Click was proven to be a man of excellent character, sober, industrious and peaceable. He was never known to have a difficulty. He and Mr. Phelps were proven to be close and intimate friends. He was proven by a large number of witnesses to be a somnambulist; the witnesses detailing many instances where he would arise in his sleep trembling, with his eyes indicating great fright. Until within the last four months Mr. Click has been constantly tying himself to the bedstead—keeping the rope on the bedstead in the day with which he would tie himself at night. He recently slept with a friend in Mocksville, but before going to bed, he bought and paid for enough rope to tie himself with. When he went visiting he requested his neighbors to tie him, which they did. He jumped through a window cutting himself terribly. Last week he went to sleep in the room where his dead uncle lay a corpse. He suddenly arose with terrible expressions of fear and started to seize his dead uncle. His sister and a gentleman caught him, got him awake, and he went back to bed. Many other instances were given. Mr. Phelps' own brother testified to his good character, sobriety and inoffensiveness, and to his somnambulism. The Justice of the Peace after hearing all the evidence, carefully brought out by counsel discharged the prisoner. This decision met with universal approbation of the large numbers of people who were present, eagerly listening to every word that fell from the large number of witnesses exam-

The Farmers' Column.

Under the head of NORTH CAROLINA INDUSTRIES we design giving adequate space for presenting regularly to our readers such information as we may be able and as will interest them, relating to all the industrial interests of the State. To this end we cordially invite our friends through out the State to write us on all matters pertaining to the farming, manufacturing and mining interests of their respective localities.

Give us your experiments in farming and their results.

Inform us of any new enterprises inaugurated in your community.

Give us items relating to the crops and the general condition of your people. To all questions relating to our farming economy and other industrial matters, we will endeavor to give correct answers. Send in your questions.

TURNIPS. The value of root crops is not properly appreciated by the average Southern farmer. Especially is this true of turnips. In fact this crop is neglected too much throughout this whole country, as the yield per acre in the several States, compared with the yield per acre in England, will show. Twenty-five to thirty-five tons per acre is no uncommon yield in England, while the half of that amount is rarely reached in our country. In our climate the turnip can be kept as well for winter use as the po-tato, and if the ground be properly prepared and fertilized we can produce as much to the acre, and as cheaply, as in any country. In some of the Northern States it is estimated that the cost of production is from two and a half cents to four cents per

Prepare the ground well. Pulverize deep and thoroughly-harrow it neatly. If the seed are to be sown broadcast, mix them thoroughly with wheat bran, dry sand or dry ashes, and to secure uniformity in the stand it is better to sow half one way and the remainder across the direction of the first; brush or rake or harrow them

The ground should be manured and plowed well, some days or weeks before owing. Twenty-five loads stable manure and 100 pounds of phosphate-or fifty bushels cotton seed and the same amount of phosphate per acre will be found to give vigorous growth to the plant and a good yield.

Wood ashes, sheep, goat and cattle manure and scrapings from old smoke houses are also excellent for turnips. It has been a question of some interest to our people, as to the cost per head per annum, of keeping sheep. In reply to this question, made by the Department of Agriculture in the spring of 1878, the esti mate in about sixty counties of the Stat averaged about 51 cents per head. With the attention and care now bestowed or sheep in the State we are satisfied the esti mate was too high. In our climate we are not compelled to feed sheep more than sixty to seventy-five days throughout t year. By raising turnips, which can be done at a cost not to exceed four cents per bushel, and hay which should not cost exceeding fifteen cents per hundred pounds, and with cotton seed at 10 to 121 cents per bushel, our sheep should be kept well through winter at a cost of less than half a cent per day per head. Suppose some of our sheep-growers try their skill on a turnip crop, and give us the facts and fig-ures on this subject. It is a matter of great importance to our people.

The rains may possibly ruin much corn fodder, but on our soils it will as surely produce more hay. There is scarcely farm in the State that cannot produce sufficient native hay-rich and nutritiousto supply its demands, and when we know it can be done so cheaply there is no excuse founded in correct ideas of proper farm management that will justify the purchase of Northern hay. Save your hay—it is the cheapest product on your farm and one that is indispensable. Cure it well, but do not let it lie exposed to dew and sunshine until it turns black or is bleached. One day of good sunshine is sufficient. Take it to the barn, and if you have doubts as to its being sufficiently cured, sprinkle salt through it as you

Will some of our Eastern friends, to whom were sent Jute seed last spring by the Department of Agriculture, send to THE NEWS some notes on the prospects and their views as to its adaptability, &c. It is our firm belief that Jute will enter argely into the diversifying of our crops, which in the progress of agriculture must be inevitable, manufacturers are ready (and are only waiting for us to demonstrate that we can produce it) to come and establish factories in our midst. Nearly all the Jute we consume in bagging, bags and rope, is imported from India, first passing through the hands of British manufacturers. We should save this immense sum which we annually pay to foreign countries as a tribute to their enterprise; North Carolina should produce and nanufacture all the Jute to meet her denands. We hope to prove by experiments now being made by about fifty of our farmers in about twenty-five counties, that it can be made a profitable crop in our should be well cured, and then housed if at all practicable. Every farmer should have plenty of shelter under which to pack his fodder, hay, &c. The habit of stacking fodder in the field is a wasteful and extravagant one. It causes loss in fodder and loss in time and labor. It is generally saved at a time when he has little use for his teams, and with one hand to drive the fodder could be more easily taken to the barn at the time of gathering than at any other season of the year, and can be done with much less waste. If not prepared for it, go to work at once, and save the labor and time and fodder that you will surely otherwise throw away. PROTECT YOUR SHEEP.

Keep your sheep free from ticks by salt, once or twice a week. The proper proportion is one part sulphur to seven parts salt. It is also equally efficacious for cattle. This is also the season when the fly or moth that lays the egg in the nosday we raised a Hancock, Jarvis and trils of sheep, from which is produced the worm that is so destructive. Either catch Jupiter one tenderloin steak very rarely broiled, a cold chicken wing, and a pint of somest role and hanner away rived in the sheep and smear pine tar on the nose,

Upon what principle of economy a man can purchase a good field thresher, a wheat drill, reaper, or plantation engine, and allow them to stay out—exposed to the weather? We have noticed this, on several farms in our travels recently, and were puzzled to see economy in such practice. L. L. P. North Carolina Census.

DIED.—Samuel Rowland, a well known citizen of this county, died at his residence about two miles from this city, on the Rock Quarry road, yesterday morning at 1 o'clock. His funeral will take place from his late residence this morning at 10

HORSE DROWNED.-Mr. Mason, mail carrier from Merry Oaks to Bradley's Store, in Harnett county, had his horse drowned last Saturday in crossing a swollen creek. His horse and sulky were both lost, but grabbing his mail bag Mr. Mason swam ashore.

Work to be Done.—The four bridges washed away should be built immediately. Fully one-third of the people of Wake county live beyond Neuse river and a good trade in cotton comes to this market from the counties of Johnston, Nash and Franklin over the bridges which are gone. The bridges should be rebuilt without delay and the Board of Magistrates should meet and make such arrangements as will speedily repair all damages. Gentlemen, look into this matter.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—A rather peculiar accident occurred on the North Carolina Railroad yesterday morning. As the train was coming up from Goldsboro, a grey horse on the side of the road became very much frightened, and in trying to break away from his driver fell down a steep embankment into the ditch on the side of the track. The cart to which he was hitched fell on top of him, and it is supposed his back was broken, as when last seen he was throwing his head about evidently in great pain, while no motion was discernible in his hinder quarters.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA -This institution was organized five years ago, under its present management, and since then it has grown steadily in efficiency and popularity. Thoroughly equip-ped with teachers, apparatus and buildings, and maintaining a high standard of scholarship and discipline, it offers facilities for education of the very first order at the lowest rates. Those who leave North Carolina to be educated abroad at extra expense, waste money and lose opportunities not to be had elsewhere. See ad. HANCOCK PLATES.—We were shown a very handsome set of gilt edge dinner plates vesterday, upon each of which was picture of General Hancock. We would suggest that a portion of the campaign fund be expended on these plates, one to be presented to every doubtful Democratic voter, provided he will pledge himself to eat dinner from the same till after election day. No patriotic citizen could eat his dinner, looking at the handsome features of the Democratic nominee for President, without going right to the polls and casting a vote for his election.

TGWNSHIP CONVENTIONS CALLED. In accordance with the plan of organization of the Democratic party, adopted by the Central Executive Committee of the State, a meeting of the Democratic party in your township is hereby called, to take place on the 4th day of September, 1880, for the purpose of organizing, and also for the purpose of appointing delegates to the County Convention, which will meet in the city of Raleigh, on the 18th day of September, 1880, to nominate candidates for the various county offices, the Legislature, &c.

FROM THE STATE HOUSE.—We visited the capitol yesterday in great hopes. From the Treasury Department we learned that drummer's licenses had been issued to T. J. Magruder & Co., of Baltimore. and Tarrant & Co., New York.

Nothing doing in the Executive department, the Private Secretary told us.

In the Auditor's department the usual routine business was being transacted. Nothing of interest from the Secretary of State's office.

The Supreme Court was busy all day. A report of the proceedings elsewhere. Sherwood Haywood, State Librarian, having recovered from his late sickness, was at his post, looking much the worse from a tussle with bilious fever.

THE RACES .- The races which have been advertized will certainly come off this afternoon. All the horses are in good trim and training, and each match will be hotly contested. The horses from Goldsboro arrived last night, and a day of enjoyment to lovers of fast horses may be looked for. All and everything which can will be done to make it pleasant for all who may attend. Nothing but in clement weather will prevent the races, two trotting matches and a running match, this evening. Let there be a rousing The funeral of the late George Horton turn out on the occasion. THE VOTE IN WAKE COUNTY CON-VENTIONS.—By the plan of organization adopted by the Democratic State Central Committee, Wake County Democratic Nominating Convention will be entitled to 169 votes, distributed as follows, on a basis of one vote for each twenty-five Democratic voters, and one for each additional fifteen Democratic votes:

Barton's Creek township, 7 votes. Buckhorn Carv Cedar Fork House's Creek Little River 44 Mark's Creek Middle Creek Neuse River New Light Oak Grove 10 Panther Branch Raleigh 43 St. Mary's 12 St. Matthew's Swift Creek Wake Forest 12 White Oak 9

169 Necessary to a nomination, 85 votes. The new plan of organization of the Republican party provides for three votes from each election precinct, and there being 24 precincts in Wake county the vote in the Republican County Convention will be 72, requiring 37 to a choice.

AMERICAN HORSES IN ENGLAND. The American two year olds are doing remarkably well in England, and if they go into their three year form improved, some of the classic events of the year ought to be at their mercy. Iroquois has won four times, and two of the races were great ones. Paw Paw, the sister of Parole, has won only once, but she has been second to Tristan, the best English colt of the year, and to Angelina. The New York Sportsman, edited by that clever gentleman and thorough horseman. C. J. Foster, who looks and talks Yorkshire all over, says "the colts which have appeared in England so far, are not better than Iroquois, but it is possible that some of the best are still in reserve. Angelina and Bal Gal, and perhaps Meteora, are the only fillies as good as Paw Paw." It is noticeable that Iroquois has never showed first at the end of three-quarters of a mile. which was the distance Paw Paw won at but from his breeding he ought to be stayer, and as in one of his races at the distance he was beaten by a filly who is talked of in the same breath with Wheel of Fortune, and the other in which he ran second was his second race, in both of which he carried extra weight on that day, and the first he won. Another year may put plenty of length in him.

WAKE SUPERIOR COURT .- Judge Graves opened the August term of Wake Superior Court promptly at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The following persons compose the Grand Jury: J. M. Fleming, foreman; W. L. Nipper, Geo. Fleming, G. W. Harrington, G. W. Woodall, Holloway Olive, W. E. Ashley, Geo. Olive, Yancey Marcome, E. R. Pace, Henry Biggs, A. Liggon, W. B. Scott, A. D. Fleming, C. N. King, C. C. Crow, John E. Stephens and G. J. Banks. The Judge's charge to the jury was plain and pointed; he made them fully understand their every duty.

Several cases on the criminal docket were disposed of by motions, and continued till January term.

The case of State vs. Warren Sanders larceny, was tried by jury. Verdict guilty. Judgment not passed.

Court adjourned till 10 o'clock this

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS .- Among our new advertisements to-day will be found that of the races, which will take place at the Raleigh Fair Grounds this eve-to read. THE SHOW BILLS .- To-day the big posters will appear, and the public will be informed, in all the colors of the rainbow, of Paradise, monkeys, bears, lions, tigers and the big elephant, all to be seen for one price of admission, beneath the mammoth pavilion which will be erected on the City Park lot. While the youth are jubilant over the prospect of the circus, for ourself, we know that when the hoop, composed of jets of gas, is let down, the curtain drawn up, the saw-dust shaken with mathematical precision in a complete circle, we feel as much enlivened as the voungest child present, and actually join in the hearty laugh which responds to the clown's shrill cry of "Here we are, sir. just for old acquaintance sake," as he follows the ring master with his long whip around the ring.

CENSUS NOTES .- The Supervisor of the Census for this District closed his labors last Saturday, and the returns have been sent on to Washington. The returns filled thirteen boxes weighing, with their contents, 150 pounds each, and were sent as registered mail matter. The oldest inhabitant, according to the census reports, lives in Halifax township of Halifax county. Her name is Nancy Daniel, and she is 125 years old. The record is silent as to how much wood she can chop in a day, how fine print she can read without glasses, and how many and what "fathers of the country" she "nussed."

WHO IS HE?-The Tribune prints as one of the representatives of North Carolina Radicalism at the recent conference in New York the name of Isaac Y. Youngs.

GLEANINGS FROM STATE EXCHANGES

R. R. McCall, Esq., for fifteen years past the excellent Sheriff of Caldwell county, died near Lenoir on July 29. In Cabarrus the Sun says that the lowlands are a sea of water. Trade is cut off, fences washed off, and cornfields washed The Lincolnton Progress says that Mr. Robert P. Reinhardt, of Catawba county, this year raised 1,800 bushels of good wheat and 600 bushels of oats. To every acre sown to oats he averaged 37½ bushels. The Shelby Aurora says the census gives Cleveland county 16,456 people. In 1870 it had 12,696. In 1870 there were 1,261 farmers; now there are 2,354. Rutherford county had 1,147, and now

The Greensboro Patriot says that the New Garden Fruit Fair was attended by 200 people, that the exhibition was small, but its quality superb. Speeches were made by Col. Staples, Gen. Scales, Judge Dick and Mr. Ragsdale. The Concord Sun says that the newly-elected county commissioners of Cabarrus are Messrs. J. L. Stafford, R. W. Allison, Martin Bost. The county tax is 341 cents on property and $1.03 on polls.

The Burke Blade says that "the dried blackberry crop of this county is getting to be an article of considerable commerce and the crop of the present year was the largest ever known, and thousands of pounds are being bought by our merchants. We learn that one young lady in Lower Creek township picked, dried and sold with her own hands $14 worth, and milked several cows and cooked for a large family besides."

There is a big freshet in the Cape Fear. The Wilmington Review says that the rise up to Saturday afternoon was 32 feet and going on at two feet an hour. Capt. Gar-rason, of the steamer D. Murchison, reports that the magnificent crops of corn on he river low lands will all be lost, as the water was over the top of the corn yesterday. At least one hundred thousand bushels of corn are now under water and will prove an entire loss.

STATE POLITICAL NOTES:-

The Charlotte Olserver says that Mr. Theo. F. Kluttz, of Salisbury, appointed Elector of the Seventh District by the Democratic convention held at Yadkinville Wednesday, is one of the rising young men of the district. Though not hitherto prominent in State politics, he has been an active and efficient worker in his own county, and will make a fine canvass. As a speaker he is bold, incisive and pointed.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS:-The official returns of the census of Nebraska show a total population of 452,-542 for the State. In 1855 the popula-tion was 4,494; in 1860 it was 28,841; in 1870 it was 122,993.

Two bales of new cotton, the first produced in the Mississippi Valley, were received at New Orleans Saturday night—one from Mt. Pleasant, La., and the other from Wilkinson county, Mississippi.

The Montgomery Advertiser says the colored voters worked manfully for the Democratic ticket in nearly every county in Alabama at the State election last Monday, and that they will do the same for Hancock in November.

The census shows that twenty-four Southern cities, not including Louisville. St. Louis, Galveston, Atlanta and other large and growing centres of population. have an increase over the returns of 1870 of 537,641 souls. This don't look much like the South is standing still.

Mr. George Bancroft began fifty-five years ago this month his "History of the United States," and in a few weeks he expects to celebrate its completion at his Newport summer home. He will be eighty years old if he lives until the 3d of next October.

Last week's weekly statement of the New York Associated Banks shows the following changes: Loans increase $6,986,-500; specie increase $668,900; legal tenders decrease $3,515,400; deposits increase $5,717,700; circulation decrease $47,200; reserve decrease $4,275,925. The banks now hold $11,566,450 in excess of legal requirements.

By the census just taken it appears that the State of Wisconsin has not increased in population during the last decade as rapidly as was anticipated. The enumera-tion will show about 1,300,000, which will be a gain of only 300,000 in ten years. and the increase is shown mostly in the cities, Milwaukee alone having added to her population about 40,000. The people of Wisconsin are greatly disappointed and he was horror stricken when he heard was preached at Person Street Methodist Church Sunday evening. The Milton Murderous Assault.

[From the New York Times.] Public opinion in Milton is almost animously on the side of Mr. Catlin. Unfortunately, wide publicity has been given by the press to the other side of the story. and it is an act of simple justice to put the matter in its true light, so that persons who do not know the exact state of the case may be disabused of a cruel ; r judice against a worthy and much-suffering young

Mr. Catlin was, as every one testifies, on excellent terms with the whole Meacham family prior to the painful event which has given him such an undesirable notoriety. He visited the house with the full approbation of Mr. Meacham, and, though he was not formally engaged to Miss Meacham, his attentions to her were understood to have a matrimonial purpose, and were frankly accepted by the young lady. Neither had he been on unpleasant terms with Master Meacham. On the contrary, that youthful monument of iniquity. had always professed a warm liking for him, and had openly said that of all Mary Jane's admirers Mr. Catlin was the only one who fully met his approbation.

It was this fondness for Mr. (a lin which led Master Meacham to persistently intrude himself into the back parlor when his sister was visited by her favored admirer. This naturally failed to meet the views of either the young man or the young lady, and it is believed that on several occasions the latter secretly boxed her brother's ears. One evening the persistent way in which he asked questions upon subjects of an unwelcome nature drove his sister to madness, and she ordered him to go directly to bed, under the penalty of informing his father concerning a recent surreptitious fishing excursion which had involved a compound fracture of the Fourth and two or three other commandments. Master Meacham appealed to Mr. Catlin, and when that gentleman expressed the offensive opinion that bed was at all times the proper and normal condition of boys, he withdrew, secretly meditating vengeance on his sister and her accomplice. Up to this point there certainly had been nothing in the conduct of Mr. Catlin to which the sternest moralist could take exception. The next evening Mr. Catlin called, as usual, but, to his great satisfaction, Master Meacham was not visible. He took possession of the back parlor with Miss Mary Jane, and the happy pair sat down on the sofa to discuss the tariff on steel, the advantages of the Euphrates Valley Railway, and, in short, the usual subjects which interest the young of both sexes. The light burned dimly, for it was a bright moon-light night, and, besides, Miss Mary Jane claimed that her eyes were too weak to bear the full glare of the lamp. Mr. Catlin had been in the house only about ten minutes, and was, as yet, occupying one end of the sofa, while Miss Meacham marked, "Good gosh!" and sprang up as if he had been suddenly shot up by a concealed spring.

Miss Meacham was, of course, greatly astonished, but to her inquiries Mr. Catlin replied that he had felt a sudden pain in the region of the heart, but that it had passed away and was of no consequence. He apologized profusely for his improper language, and said that the pain had been so sharp that it had momentarily deprived him of his self-control. When he sat down he avoided the corner, and occupied place at about the middle of the sofa. As he was due at about that point on the sofa at that precise time, Miss Meacham thought that his change of seat was perfectly natural, and glanced at the clock to learn how long it would be before he would take up another and nearer position. Five minutes later Mr. Catlin again bounded to his feet, expressing himself in even more forcible language than he had previously used. Miss Mary Jane asked, with great concern, if he had been a second time attacked with pain in the heart, but he said that his heart was all right, and wished to know why on earth she made a needle-cushion out of her sofa. The young lady denied that there were any needles in the sofa, and carefully passed her hand over it to convince him that she was right, but he refused to be convinced. She then suggested that perhaps there was a needle concealed somewhere about his clothing, but he refused to admit the suggestion. "That there sofa," said the injured man, is just chock with needles, and I ain't going to risk my life by sitting on it any more." Whereupon he drew up a cane bottomed chair and placed himself in it with as much care as if he had carried dynamite cartridges in his coat pocket. The conversation was presently resumed. and Miss Mary Jane was in the act of saying—apropos of the binomial theorem—that she could be happy with any man she truly loved in the smallest possible house, when she unexpectedly cried out in piercing tones, "Oh! My goodness!" and leaped to her feet. Mr. Catlin caught her in his arms, and entreated her to tell him what was the matter, but she merely moaned, and alluded in an incoherent way to that dreadful sofa. It then dawned upon Mr. Catlin that this also was a case of needles, and he was just remarking that the best thing to be done with that sofa was to burn it, and to subsequently sell the needles by the pound for old iron, when he heard a subdued chuckle. Stooping down, he caught the infamous Master Meacham by one leg, and dragging him from under the sofa, confiscated the long carpet-needle with which the monster had accomplished his fiendish purpose.

M(s) men would have killed the wretch on the spot, for, in addition to his other crimes, he had overheard all the conversation concerning the tariff and the binomial theorem, and was morally certain to repeat it at the dinner-table in case his life was spared. It is greatly to Mr. Catlin's credit hat he did not slay the boy on the spot, and that, on the contrary, he even protected him from his sister, who flew at him with appalling fury, and would, had she not been restrained, have stretched him a hairless corpse on the carpet. Seizing the boy by the collar of his coat and elsewhere. Mr. Catlin threw him out of the open window into the back yard, expecting that he would strike on a soft bed of onions and sustain no material damage. His motive was simply to rid himself of the wretch in the quickest and safest manner, in at the window, and, demanding to know what he meant by throwing his family at him, knocked the young man down and ordered his daughter instantly to bed. It is this wholly unforeseen accident which by reckless reporters has been represented as an attempt on the part of Mr. Catlin to murder an entire family without the slightest provocation. Of course, the young man's innocence of the charge will be proved in due time, but it is certainly rather hard that in addition to his physical suffering, and the pain which his peremptory dismissal as the suitor of Miss Meacham has caused him, he should be held up to public execration as a wretch who had attempted a peculiarly barbarous and complex murder, while under the prosumed influence of delirium tremens.

C. D. Parham, messenger for the Southern Express, is responsible for the following story: While at Texarkana in the discharge of his duties, he purchased some peaches of a boy who was vending them on the depot platform. They were unusually large and fine, being of the clingstone order, and Mr. Parham devoured the first one with great relish. The second one was even more toothsome, and, after removing all the meat that was possible from the stone, he placed the latter in his mouth while he turned to attend to some duty. Several times he felt some-thing tickle the roof of his mouth, and when at leisure again he examined the stone carefully. Protruding from one edge of it he discovered something that resembled a spider's leg, and when touched with a knife it gave evidence of life. Mr. Parham called to his side George Stanton, an Iron Mountain engineer, and J. R. Martin, agent for the Southern Express at Texarkana. The stone was carefully opened with a knife, and there snugly imbedded was a centipede. It was in a torpid state at first, but the sunlight prought it into full vigor in a very few econds, and it began to look around for a place of more safety. It was placed under a hat until a bottle could be procured. It was forced into its new glass prison and ecurely corked with the intention of ringing it to St. Louis. On the trip the pottle was accidentally broken and Mr. Parham was compelled, much against his will, to kill his dangerous prisoner. It measured a fraction less than two inches in length.

The census is revealing many queer things. Massachusetts has 150,000 more women than men. No wonder that Col. Susan Anthony is demanding woman's rights. Each one is entitled to a man and they ought to have one.

By SMITH, C. J .:-Cobb vs. Morgan; 'Nash. Affirmed.

When usurious interest has been paid the amount so paid may be recovered in an action for money had and received by the payer against the payee, or may be set up as a set off pro tanto in a suit for the principal debt on which it was paid as interest.

The usury law of 1875 has no retroactive effect. Where a note was valid when made, a subsequent contract for the further forbearance of the debt which the note evidences does not vitiate such note.

May vs. Darden ; Pitt. Reversed. An appeal lies from a judgment for costs only. Costs in actions against fiduciaries are governed by special regulations and do not always go with the judgment.

Taylor vs. Higgie; Granville. Reversed.

One holding a second mortgage on lands as a trustee cannot buy such lands at a sale under foreclosure of the first mortgage, but he is entitled to re-imbursement for mortgagor by words or acts agrees to a sale under the mortgage, he cannot be heard afterwards to deny the validity of the mortgage or the sale had thereunder.

Varner vs. Arnold; Randolph. Af firmed.

The orders of General Sickles and General Canby suspending the action of the civil courts of the State have and had no legal efficacy, except as obedience was compelled by the use of force.

State vs. Harder; Pitt. Affirmed. An omission to charge, not asked in the court below, cannot be noticed as an exception in this court. It is not error to refuse to charge that confessions are to be received with caution, and still less so when the court is not asked to give the instruction. The jury alone must judge of the sufficiency of confessions, as proving the fact confessed. It is settled in this State that the confessions of a prisoner, or the testimony of an accomplice, though without corroboration in material particulars, if believed by the jury, is sufficient to warrant conviction, and the propriety of giving a caution to the jury to prevent an improper confidence in its truth must be left to the discretion

Even clear perjury of a witness, committed on the trial, does not authorize the court to direct the jury to discard his testimony, but it goes to his credit only. collateral inducement, having no relation to the offence, is an insufficient reason for rejecting a confession given in response.

BY ASHE, J.:-

Phillips vs. Lentz; Cabarrus. Affirmed. When, on an application for the removal of a cause, no facts are stated in the affidavit as grounds for the removal, the ruling of the court below may be reviewed, but when facts are set forth, their sufficiency rests in the discretion of the Judge, and his decision is final.

State vs. Mitchell; Watauga. Reversed. In the trial of a criminal action on a plea of not guilty, it is proper matter of defence that the alleged crime was committed out of the State. Battle's Revisal. chap. 33, section 70, does not apply.

State vs. Dancy; Wilkes. Affirmed. Our statute makes it rape, carnally to know a female under ten years of age, even though she consent. And under section 5, chapter 32, Bat. Rev., an attempt to carnally know a female under ten years of age, is punishable as an assault with intent to commit rape, by imprisonment in the State's prison not less than five nor more than fifteen years.

State vs. Berry; Perquimans. Affirmed.

The Superior Court has no original jurisdiction of a simple assault and battery until more than six months has elapsed from the commission of the offence.

Southerland and wife vs. Harper; Caldwell. Affirmed.

One in possession of land under a legal title cannot bring suit to restrain another from selling the land under execution on judgment against the grantor of the party in possession. When the land is sold a question of title with which the courts can deal, will arise between the party in possession and the purchaser at execution

State vs. Ham. Alleghany. Affirmed. 1. Under chapter 141, Laws 1879, when the Superior Court has rendered judgment on an appeal from an Inferior Court, an appeal lies to the Supreme Court, for, by Art. 4, Sec. 8, of the Constitution, the Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review upon appeal any decision of the Courts below upon any matter of law or legal inference. 2. The offence of disposing of personal property subject to a mortgage is exclusively cognizable by a Justice of the Peace.

Financial Chronicle Market Reports.

NEW YORK, August 7, 1880. The cotton receipts of last week were 8,982 bales; since September 1st, 4,899,884 an increase over 1879 of 459,783 bales. The exports were 33,436 bales; since September 1st, 3,813,339, an increase of 416,015 bales. The stock, 170,873 bales, an increase of 66,324 bales. The visible supply, 1,531,471 bales, an increase of 306,973 over 1879, 256,-605 over 1878, and a decrease of 420,215 from 1877. Of this supply, 930,380 American, of which 218,380 in the United States. The receipts at the interior ports, 2,860: interior stocks, 41,507, an increase of 28,-458 bales. The plantation receipts, 858; in 1879, 3,028; in 1878, 410 bales; since September 1st, 4,934,090; in 1879, 4,449,852; in 1878, 4,255,023. The price at Liverpool on Friday last was 6 13-16; in 1879, 6 5-16; in 1878, 68; in 1877, 6d. There has been too much rain the past week in many sections, consequently the reports of caterpillars are more pronounced, and there is danger of their doing much harm in the Gulf states and in the Mississippi Valley, if we do not have hot and dry weather soon.

At New York last week general trade was more active, and the prospects of the future are regarded with favor. It seems to be believed that although prices of some staples are low, yet, taken altogether, values are on a sound basis. It is also very probable that at need rate prices the export lemand for breadstuffs will continue very large. There is, therefore, for these and other reasons, a very cheerful feeling in business and manufacturing circles.

In last week's New York cotton market the sales of futures were 217,200; prices varying with the rain reports. Spots were in but limited demand; the sales were 3,888 bales, of which 1 212 for export, 2,676 for

In the New York breadstuffs market last week, flour was very irregular and the market closed dull for all grades. Wheat was active, but no changes in prices effected. Corn was in very brisk demand and some advance in prices secured.

In dry goods New York's trade last week was rather slow, taking into consideration the great number of package buyers now in the market and the favorable condition of business at most of the principal distributing points in the interior. Buvers of cotton goods commued to operate sparingly, and with that confidence in the maintenance of present values, though many leading fabrics are now quoted at very low figures. Woolen goods also moved slowly frem first hands, but there was a fair demand for prints, ginghams and dress goods, and rather more animation was reported in shawls and skirts. Foreign goods were more sought for, but the demand was irregular, having been mainly restricted to British and Continental fancy dress fabrics, which were more active. The exports of cotton goods during the week aggregated 1,853 packages.
